No Slush On Cold Day

The third snow of the season fell Sunday night and Monday putting another white frosting on the Courthouse monument, cannon, trees and buildings. Milder temperatures, following sub-zero readings of the week before, still failed to melt all the accumulation from the season's previous two snowfalls and Monday's snow seemed like frosting on a "cake" that even the hardiest of winter-weather lovers were getting a bit tired of. And, as the calendar shows and the weathermen pointed out, spring is still a good two-months away.

Free Seedlings From Westvaco

Appomattox County is among 64 Virginia counties whose landowners and youth groups can get free pine seedlings for planting next spring.

Persons owning land in the county, even though they may not reside here, may purchase either pine or hardwood seedlings from the Virginia Division of Forestry and obtain an equal number free from Westvaco. Such youth organizations as 4-H, Vo-Ag, and Scouts can get up to 1,000 free pine seedlings per member without having to buy any.

Westvaco says its seedling offer to landowners is a "no strings attached" program aimed at helping plant thousands of non-producing acres to trees for which Westvaco may bid when the timber matures and is offered for sale on the open market.

Seedlings obtained through this program --and their planting -- are eligible for cost-sharing through the ACP Program of the U.S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, County Agents and Soil and Water Conservation Districts also are cooperating with Westvaco in this reforestation campaign.

Details of the Westvaco program may be obtained from cooperating government agencies, from state forest wardens and district foresters, or from Westvaco pulpwood yards or from Westvaco's Wood Procurement headquarters at the company's Covington, Va., paperboard mill; or Westvaco Timberlands Division, Lynchburg, Va.

Westvaco has given more than 45 million seedlings to Virginia landowners and youth groups over the many years the program has been offered in the state. This number of seedlings has helped reforest some 65,000 acres of old fields and cutover woodlots in Virginia.

Bankshares Inc. Reports $2.29 Share Earnings

Fidelity American Bankshares, Inc. of Lynchburg has reported a net income of $5,681,755, or $2.29 per share for the year 1969. This represents a 36% increase over the combined Fidelity National Bank and American National Bank figure of $1.69 per share in 1968. The figures for both years' earnings reflect a recent change in the regulations of the Comptroller of the Currency, whereby provision for loan losses is included for the first time as an operating expense, and security profits and losses are also reported as an adjustment to operating income. The loan loss provision reduced net earnings by five cents per share in both years. Security losses in 1968 amounted to ten cents per share, while security gains in 1969 amounted to two cents per share.

Fidelity American, a registered bank holding company which began operations in September, 1965, currently controls two banks, Fidelity National Bank, Lynchburg, and American National Bank Portsmouth.

Control Staff Needed Say Founders

In a prepared statement Eugene B. Sydnor Jr., Chairman of the State Community College System, Monday called on Governor - elect Linwood Holton's committee studying efficiency and economy in the state's Government to "realize the importance of maintaining a centralized direction to the state's Community Colleges." Sydnor said that the colleges' central co-ordinating staff was "the cohesive quality force in the colleges' educational process ... This staff provides each college with necessary academic and administrative services at less cost and with more expertise than each college could afford to provide for itself ... For each of our thirteen colleges to provide fully every scholastic and administrative service needed by an individual institution would be grossly uneconomical." This attitude, he felt, tied in well to the objectives of Holton's study group.

The College's central staff, located in Richmond, provides a system - wide payroll department, a curricula development office, public information services, a duplicating and printing shop, engineering offices, and overall financial guidance. In addition, the department's Special Training Division, which has trained the personnel for 70% of the new industries coming to Virginia since 1966, is located in the central Richmond office.

Tunstall Girls and Rebeletts First Loss 39-38

The Rebeletts led 9-8 after a quarter and 20-13 at the half, but Tunstall came back strong in the third quarter and outscored the Appomattox team 14-6 for a 27-25 lead at the end of the third quarter. Tunstall kept getting the chances at the foul line in the last quarter as they held on for the one point margin.

The Tunstall defense did not allow the Rebeletts a field goal in the third quarter which turned out to be a big factor. Both teams were the same in field goals, 13 each, but Tunstall had 33 of 28 free throws and that the Rebeletts made 12 of 25.

VEPCO To Spend $1.19 Billion

The Virginia Electric and Power Company has announced an expanded $1.19 billion construction program of new electric generating units to be placed in operation during the next seven years.

John M. McGurn, Vepco president said, "This program represents an increase of two and a half times Vepco's entire current net investment in generating equipment. Also, the figure does not include millions in the cost of additional transmission and distribution facilities."

McGurn said new construction consists of a third unit of 845,000 kilowatt capacity at the Yorktown Power Station.

Additional construction includes a second 875,000 kilowatt nuclear unit at Vepco's North Anna Power Station in Louisa County, Va.

The Marble Valley project is scheduled for operation in March 1976 and will cost approximately $162 million.

No Increase For "65's"

RICHMOND –Blue Cross of Virginia and Blue Shield of Virginia have announced that coverage under their 65 Extended Program would be expanded to cover the increases slated for Part A of Medicare effective Jan. 1, 1970.

"Despite a substantial 18per cent boost in the Medicare Part (HEW), the increases include the deductible and co-insurance amounts payable under Part A of Medicare to hospitals and extended care facilities. HEW recently announced an increase in the hospital deductible amount from $44 to $52.

Social Security Commissioner Robert M. Ball pointed out that the increase is a "result of the long-term trend toward increasing hospital costs and also results in part from the general inflation taking place."

In addition to covering the hospital deductible amount, the Blue Cross and Blue Shield 65 Extended Program supplements other benefits available under the Medicare Program.

A deductible and co-insurance costs, we're pleased to note that our subscribers covered under the 65 Extended Program will have no increase in their Blue Cross and Blue Shield rates at this time," said M. Roy Battista, assistant general manager. "The experience of this specially designed program has been very good as of this date, and the cost of the program will remain at $4.60 per month."
